Dear Ruf:

I appreciate your thoughtfulness in sending me a personal copy of the 1968 edition of the Economic Intelligence Statistical Handbook. Today we all know and appreciate the value of intelligence but every now and then a handbook like this—nicely formatted and packed tight with an enormous amount of conveniently tabulated useful data—reminds us of the many indispensable services we receive. Your Economic and Strategic Research Offices merit great praise for this publication.

With warmest personal regards.

Sincerely,

T. H. MOORER
Admiral, U.S. Navy
